Mr. A. T. Ganesan
Carlsberg Laboratory
Copenhagen, Valby, Denmark

Dear Mr. Ganesan:

I am happy to be able to inform you that we will reserve laboratory space and an assistantship for you to begin your studies at the start of the Spring semester, February 1, 1959. It is my understanding that you will be free to continue your studies, assuming a satisfactory academic performance, long enough to complete the requirements for a Ph.D. degree. I would guess that you could do this in three years time.

The assistantship stipend has been increased to $1980 per annum, less the basic tuition fees, but with exemption from nonresident fees.

Under separate cover, I am sending you some additional information as well as reprints you requested.

Please return the enclosed form at your earliest convenience, addressing it directly to me, as your assistantship is contingent on your admission to the Graduate School (which is more than probable) I suggest that you assemble the necessary transcripts and apply to the Dean of the Graduate School during the next few months.

With all best wishes,

Yours sincerely,

Joshua Lederberg
Chairman, Department of Medical Genetics

P.S. I am hoping to visit Copenhagen this summer en route to or from the Stockholm Congress, and hope to make your acquaintance then.

I trust you will take advantage of your stay in Copenhagen to make contact with Professor Westergaard at the University, and with the Drs. Ørskov at the State Serum Institute. The Ørskovs spent last year in this laboratory. Please give them my best regards,

JL
